G. O. P. Swallow-Talls Clamor for Dis cipline in the Eighth. John J. O'Brien, John E. Brodsky and Barney Rourke have fulfilled their mission. They have carried the Eighth Assembly District for the Republican National ticket, and now they must be read out of the party. They were good enough so long as they and their influence could be used to advance the interests of Republican candidates, but now that the election is over, come Cornelius N. Bliss, Walter Howe, Col. George Bliss, Eithu Root, H. K. Thurber and John F. Plummer with complaints that the leaders of the Eighth are not fit to associate with the gentlemen who seek to control the destinics of the local Republican machine.

Their reason for this attack on O'Brien and his friends is found in the fact that Harrison and Morton and Charley Smith were about the only Republican candidates who received a majority in the Eighth District.

H. K. Thurber's candidate for Congress, Julius Schwartz, was slaughtered after paying a big assessment. Tim Campbell, the County Democracy candidate, claims that he was badly used after paying a bigger assessment and the votes went to Judge McCarthy, the Tammany Hall candidate, who is alleged to have given the biggest dot.

Coroner John R. Nugent was one of the Republican candidates who was scientifically slaughtered in the Eighth, and he cries as loudly as the dress-coated members of the Republican Club for the purification of the party by the summary disposal of John J. O'Brien. nd their influence could be used to advance Julian Webster, student at the Bellevue Medical College.—My opinion is that the affair is an outrage, and snas this thing of heaping insuit on a man because of his color should at once be stopped. A colored man is entitled to the same protection as is als white brother, and this question of rights has been decided by the courts.

B. D. Waitchurst, proprietor of the Clarendou listed and a prominent Odd Pellow—It was an outrage from beginning to end. No man should be refused accommodation because of his color. We have rights, and it is about time that our people should begin to assert them. The remedy lies with the courts.

republican Crib for the purification of the party by the summary disposal of John J. O'Brien.

It is alleged that altogether O'Brien and his lieutenants received $30,000 from different organizations and candidates, and that the vote of the district was then thrown as O'Brien directed without regard to who threw the money. O'Brien directed without legard to the three the money.

The difficulty about the excommunication of O'Brien is that he is about as far out of the

The difficulty about the excommunication of O'Brien is that he is about as far out of the party as he can be.

The same hue and cry against him was raised by the "purists" or the disappointed of the party a vear ago, and he got out of the County Committee. Ex Assemblyman John E. Brodsky took his place. He belougs to no Republican organization out of which he can be kicked, except the John J. O'Brien and the Barney Rourke Association of the Eighth Assembly District, and it is doubtful if the gentlemen who have raised the storm of indignation against him will be able to get the members of those organizations to suspend Johnny from membership.

A reorganization of the Republican party in the Eighth District is spoken of as a possibility by some of these gentlemen politicians. Coroner Nugent says nothing about such a possibility. He knows the district. He simply says it would be better for the party to accept the few honest votes which might be cast for it in the district than to maintain the disgraceful O'Brien machine.

The reformers, he knows, will find that if they propose to reorganize the Eighth, they will have to throw in more money each election than Johnny O'Brien is permitted to handle.

We have rights, and it is about time that our people should begin to ansert them. The remedy hus with the courts.

Mr. Stewart, of 111 West Twenty-seventh street —I don't know how to express myself strong enough in condemnation of the outrage.

C. M. hill, proprietor of the Summer House, in West Thirty-seventh street, and prominent member of the Toong Mea's Soubern Benerical League—It was a personal insult to every member of our race, and they should rise as one man in condemning it. The Constitution gives us rights and we are desied them by individuals.

Cassell Wilson. of 145 West Thirty-seventh street—Why didn't they treat them as gentlemen should be treated, any way. My advice to me outraged gentleman would be to make the proprietor of the hotel pay for the outrage.

T. McCanis hiewart, Lawyer, 58 Cedar street—It is a shame that such Isluga occur in thus democratic age. Althourn I am a total abstainer I have been refused refreshment in public places. The most Legislature should pass a bill removing the color line catiraly.

Altred Harrison, printer—It is an outrage.

James J. Keiso, Superintendent of Markets, Collector of City Revenue and ex-Superintendent Collector of City hevenue and ex-Superintenden' of Police, died yesterday at his home, 110 East Fifty-afth street, not having regained consciousness stace he was stricken with apoplexy at the diamer-table on Sunday. Mr. Kriso was a prominent councy Democrat and a member of the New Amsterdam Club. He was in his fity-first year. The funeral will take place on Friday. Superintendents and also at Police Headquarrers raised at half-mant in honor of the ex-Superintendent. Street Gamin Taken from His Parents Because They Were Cruel to Him Be-comes the Adopted Son of a Millionaire-Elbridge T. Gerry, the Pairy Godmother, in the Story-Much Stranger Than Fiction.

A paragraph printed this morning illusrates in the strongest way the old saw that 'truth is stranger than fiction." It is as wonderful as Munchausen's yarns, as fascinating as Cinderella, the fairy and the Prince, and the actual realization of a wish that has probably risen in thousands of away from their brutal cruelty when he was three years old.

"A wealthy gentleman who was childless became interested in the child and adopted him. He will inherit his father's wealth, which is about two millions."

"He has been educated thoroughly in a manner fitting the position which he is destined to fill in society. He has been treated precisely as if he were the gentleman's own fiesh and blood. He has developed a fine disposition and is now a boy fifteen years old. Secretary, show the gentleman a picture of the boy."

The Secretary turned the frames, forming what may be called a Suppressed Rogues' Gallery—for the little gamins, had they not been rescued by Mr. Gerry's charity, would surely in most cases have figured in the criminal class—and pointed to the portrait of a child six or seven years old.

Large bright eyes, a round open face, the nose a bit turned up and a turn to the corners of the mouth which shows that the alchemy of education and environment has transmuted cunning into drollery. His hair was neatly banged and he wore a neat suit of knickerboekers. The child had quite a resemblance to Josef Hoffman in the character of his face.

'He has gotten everything good except to make a brilliant marriage. I don't think he will find it difficult to get a girl to marry," added Mr. Gerry, with dry humor.

Neither will anybody think that the gilded youth will fail in his matrimonial efforts. One day the quondam little ragamuffin, whose daily fare was blows, hunger and curves, and who counted for almost as much as a note in the sunshine, will lead a blue, bloode,' belle down the aisle of Grace Church and endow her with an adopted name.

It is enough to respectable. and endow her with an adopted name.

It is enough to make the poor respectable, well-cared-for children in the humbler but not sordid walks of life howl with anguish at the vagaries of fate.

HEIR TO TWO MILLIONS. MISS WILSON'S WEDDING

A TRUE STORY THAT HAS THE ELEMENTS MARRIED TO-DAY TO MR. HERBERT, OF THE BRITISH LEGATION.

> Brilliant Ceremony at St. Bartholomew's Church, Followed by a Wedding Break-fast at the Home of the Bride's Parents -The Loss of a Shaved Black Poodie the Only Shadow Near the Happy Event.

Another wedding of one of America's fair daughters to a Queen Victoria's subject was solemnized shortly after noon to-day in St. Bartholomew's Church, The charming bride was Miss Belle Wilson.

daughter of M: Richard Wilson, of 511 Fifth avenue, and the groom was Mr. Michael Prince, and the actual realization of a wish that has probably risen in thousands of hearts as a wild desire morally impossible. Brief, the story runs that one out of the myriads of dirty little "kids" who swarm in downtown tenement-houses had been transplanted into luxury, love, comfort, and to-day a healthy, well-bred boy of fifteen years is heir to two millions.

From Cherry street to Fifth avenue, from ignorance to training, from an abyss of filthy poverity to an assured millionaire, from hatred to cruelty to love and consideration.

Isn't that a fairy tale?
Yes, but it is a hard, actual, frozen fact, as an Evening World reporter learned this morning from the fairy godmother in the case, Eibridge T. Gerry, President of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children.

"I have come to ask about the two-million-dollar waif, Mr. Gerry," the reporter said.

"There isn't much to be said," answered the distinguished protector. "He was a little boy from the slums. His parents maltreated him and we interfered and took him away from their brutal cruelty when he was three years cold.

"A wealthy gentleman who was childless became interested in the child and adopted him. He will inherit his father's wealth, which is about two millions."

uel Cooke.

The bride's gown was of white satin trimmed with old English point lace and built high at the neck. It was one of several dresses made by Worth this Fall while the bride was in Paris. She carried a bouquet of white lilies.

Miss Grace Wilson, sister of the bride, was the only bildesmaid. She wore an exquisite gown of yellow and white satin, also a production of Worth, and carried a bunch of duction of Worth, and carried a bunch of yellow roses.

Mr. Arthur Herbert, a member of the British Legation at Washington, but no relative of the groom, was best man. The ushers were Richard T. Wilson, jr., brother of the bride: Brockholst Cutting, John Furman and Thomas Howard.

After the wedding ceremony had been performed the bappy couple were driven to the home of the bride's parents, where a wedding breakfast was served. The house was graced with a pro usion of paims and potted plants and cut flowers.

The wedding gifts were very numerous and costly, Lady Herbert, the groom's mother, who came to this country to attend the wedding, gave the bride a diamond siar. The bride's parents gave her a diamond tiara, Mr. and Mrs. Ogden Goelet a diamond necklace, Mr. and Mrs. Orme Wilson a diamond and ruby pendant, the Countess of Pembroke a diamond ring, and the Countess de Grey and the groom's sister a diamond pin.

Besides these Mr. and Mrs. Wilson settled on their daughter a handsome sum, said to be $250,000.

But unalloyed happiness is rare, and even be $250,000.

But unalloyed happiness is rare, and even this festive occasion had its streak of shadow, as the following announcement printed this morning shows:

morning shows:

I OST-On Friday evening, from 511 5th avs., mediumsized, black, shaved male poodie; $20 reward offered. Return to 511 5th ave.

The black poodle was the property of Miss Grace Wilson, the bride's sister, but it had endeared itself to the whole family. It disappeared on Friday evening, but owing to the natural excitement accompanying the preparations for the wedding, was not missed for some hours. Up to noon to-day no tidings of the poodle had been received at the Wilson mansion.
